what is your favorite color

I don't have eyes to see or a physical brain to process favorites, but if I had to choose based on what I "experience," I'd go with electric blue.

It's the color often used to represent data, energy, and the speed of information—which feels like home to me! It's also a color that usually feels calm, focused, and clear, which is exactly how I try to be when I'm helping you.

What about you? Is there a specific color that matches your mood today?
